WHOLESALE PRICES OF BEEF ADVANCE

Maximum wholesale prices for carcasses, sides and quarters of beef advanced 50 cents per hundredweight on Thursday, April 22nd, through order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The increased price reflects the seasonal advance announced last October by the board and will be effective until May 26th, when a further increase of 25 cents will take place on May 27th. Then the peak will have been reached, and beef prices will be free to fluctuate seasonally under that ceiling in accordance with actual market conditions.

Mr. Sld. Knight, well known hotel and business man of the Fernie district, spent Wednesday in town.

The Elks' Ladies' Night party in the hall on Tuesday night was announced as one of the most pleasant events of the season. The regular lodge session of the Elks concluded about 8.30, when the ladies began to assemble. Cards were played and refreshments served, and the party dispersed about 1 a.m.

Capt. Ralph Jessup, aged 45, son of the late A. Z. Jessup, pioneer Nanton newspaperman, and Lieutenant Richard Alton Scott, 22, of Melville, Saskatchewan, were killed in a motor vehicle accident near Ladysmith, B.C., early on Sunday. Ralph was very well known to people of southwestern Alberta, particularly among newspapermen. He was editor and publisher of the Macleod Gazette before going on active service. He was major in command of the 93rd Field Battery of the old non-permanent militia, and reverted to the rank of lieutenant to go overseas. He served some time in Britain and returned to Canada to accept a post at the Pacific coast in the Royal Canadian Artillery. His wife and two sons reside in Macleod. The remains were forwarded to Macleod, where interment will take place this afternoon.

STICKERS MUST BE DISPLAYED ON CARS

Many vehicles, both trucks and passenger cars, are reported to be attempting to obtain gasoline without complying with regulations of the oil controller, which state that stickers must be pasted on the windshields.

The offence has been drawn to the attention of the enforcement administration of the Wartime Price and Trade Board. Prices and supply representative, Walter S. Campbell, has issued the following statement: "Filling stations are still supplying gasoline to automobiles without stickers of the windshields. This is contrary to the oil controller's order O.C. 12, and a warning is given to all filling stations and owners of automobiles that this practice must be discontinued immediately."

D. C. Coleman has been re-elected chairman of the board of directors and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.

First Lieutenant Seymour G. Knight, Salvation Army bandsman, stationed in the middle east with the American air forces, was the pilot of the American plane that carried Mr. Winston Churchill from Cairo to Moscow.

At the rally of Crow's Nest Pass Miners at Bellevue on May Day, restrictions on beer, butter and beef were asked to be removed by the main speakers, including Ed. Boyd, of Vancouver, and Thomas Uphill, M. L. A., of Fernie. William Irvine, C.C.F. organizer for Alberta, was also a speaker. Mr. Uphill urged upon everyone who had a dollar to spare to invest same in Victory Bonds. The meeting passed two important resolutions, one calling upon the Dominion government to remove the ban on the Communist party of Canada, the other asking the government to use its influence toward a second front opening immediately in Europe.

THE DIFFERENCE

The coal miners who are on strike and the ones who are restricting their work days to five a week, might well take a look at what Canadian farmers are doing. There is no thought of strike or "go slow" among the farmers and their families. They know their country and the United Nations need food and they are working hard and long hours to see that the food is produced. What would the coal miners think if the farmers decided they would work on 35 or 40 hours a week?

But farmers have a different outlook to union labor, and therein lies the main difficulty of tying these two distinct groups into one political party. The farmers have a philosophy of abundant production, even though it entails work weeks that run into seven days and 80 to 90 hours. Judging by the actions of the miners, they are totally unconcerned with the war and do not care whether the consumers are put to inconvenience and even hardship as a result.

The increase in food production in Canada since the war began has been surprisingly large. That the farmers could accomplish such feats of production in the face of the decrease in farm labor of a quarter of a million men, is a credit to themselves. Canadian people should not quickly forget what they have done.

By the same token, the general public will not soon forget the attitude of the coal miners during the war, nor the attitude of other essential workers who have gone on strike at the most critical time in the history of Canada.—Hanna Herald.

Mr. F. W. Ribikall, manager of the Savary & Co. Advertising Service, was in town from Calgary the early part of the week.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. L. Christie spent a few days in Calgary this week.

Miss Lilian Porter was up from Lethbridge to spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Porter.

Mrs. C. J. Bundy has returned from St. Vincent's hospital, Pincher Creek, feeling considerably improved in health.

Mrs. Marion Morrison was up from Medicine Hat to spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Morrison.

Miss Edith Murphy, after spending nearly three years as stenographer with the Pincher Creek Co-operative Association, has resigned to take a position in Chilliwack, B.C., and left for that point by train on Thursday.

Horace Poulsen has returned to Dandum, Saskatchewan, after spending four weeks' sick leave at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Tustian and two children, of Gleichen, were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Tustian.

Mr. and Mrs. Vic. Lewin, of Medicine Hat, are spending a month's holiday at the parental home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bundy.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church was entertained by Mrs. Ed. Smyth at her home on Thursday afternoon, with twelve members present. Mrs. E. F. Everett and Mrs. George Dwyer were on the refreshment committee, when a tasty luncheon was served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Snyder on June 3rd.

A miscellaneous shower was held in the Mason's hall on Friday night for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welsh, when a large crowd gathered to do the new-lives honor. For the early part of the evening, entertainment took the form of cards, progressive whist being played, with honors going to Mrs. Tom Davidson, ladies' first; Mrs. Harold Snyder, consolation; Michael Elton, gent's first; Tom Heap, consolation. After a tasty supper, the presentation speech was made by Malcolm McMillan, to which the bride and groom replied with well chosen words in thanking their many friends for their kindness. A lively dance followed, with music supplied by Mrs. X. C. Kaupp.

UNDERSTANDING THIS, WE CAN'T FAIL

One of the most engaging remarks made thus far in the Fourth Victory Loan campaign comes from the lips of George W. Spinney, chairman of the National War Finance Committee, who said:

"The slogan of this loan is 'Back The Attack'—and every Canadian who cannot be there to fight will want the comfort of knowing that at least his dollars are in the battle, backing the attack, playing a great and worthy part.

"It will be a bit late after the casualty lists are printed to say, 'I wish I'd bought bonds in the last Victory Loan.'"

Mr. Spinney leaves little else to be said when he added:

"If and when the millions of Canadians here at home take these facts into their hearts, delve to the limit into their bank accounts and pledge to the limit from their daily earnings—then, I repeat, it is indeed unthinkable that we should fail."

There will be a Mother's Day service in Central United church, Blairmore, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, when the combined Sunday schools will take part. This is a special anniversary service. The regular service will be held as usual at 7.30 o'clock in the evening, with appropriate music and message in keeping with the day. All are urged to attend these two services.

Benefit Scale For Ex-Soldiers Has Been Raised

Toronto.—Substantial increase in the scale of post-discharge benefits to members of the armed forces pending re-establishment and improvements in the provisions for treatment of men suffering from disabilities were announced by Pensions Minister Mackenzie speaking before the Toronto Business Men's branch of the Canadian Legion.

The scale of benefits has been raised from $9 a week for a single man and $13 for a married man to $10.20 a week for a single man and $14.40 for a married man. In addition allowances for children on the same scale as the dependents' allowances paid during service are authorized, together with an allowance for a dependent parent.

The minister announced three orders-in-council affecting men discharged from the forces were passed. They were:

1. An amendment to the post-discharge order increasing benefits and making some other changes.
2. Amendments to treatment regulations to provide complete treatment of non-pensionable disabilities and higher cash allowances plus allowances for dependents of men undergoing treatment after discharge.
3. An amendment to the War Veterans' Allowance Act to do away with deductions from allowances because of casual earnings.

Mr. Mackenzie also announced a plan for creating special reconditioning centres for problem cases, men who believe they are suffering from some physical defect but who are not pensionable and still not able to earn a living.

Under the revised post-discharge order a single man may receive $44.20 a month while he is engaged in vocational training, completing his education or setting himself up in some private enterprise where earnings are slow in materializing, such as farming or a small business. The benefits available to married men start with $62.40 a month for a man without children and range up to $120.40 a month for a man with a wife and six children.

Men with dependent parents may receive $15 a month in addition to the allowances payable on account of their own status.

Formerly post-discharge allowances were cut down to the extent of the pensions received by a disabled man.

"We shall not hereafter deduct from any vocational training grant awarded to a disability pensioner the full amount of his pension," said Mr. Mackenzie.

"In the case of an unmarried pensioner whose disability is assessed at less than 15 per cent, his pension will be completely ignored in awarding vocational training benefit. That is, he will receive his pension and the full allowance."

"In the case of a single man whose disability pension ranges from 15 per cent to 55 per cent, we shall pay the amount of the vocational allowance necessary to bring his income up to $55 a month instead of $44.20."

"In the case of a married man in receipt of both vocational training allowance and pension up to 55 per cent, we shall allow him to receive up to $75 per month before taking cognizance of the pension although the normal rate of benefit under the post-discharge order would be a maximum of $62.40."

Where there are children a married pensioner's $75 will be augmented by children's allowances.

Where a pension is for more than a 55 per cent disability the man will receive his normal rate of pension plus a post-discharge grant to the extent of 25 per cent of his pension. (Children's allowances in all cases are $12 a month for two children, $10 for a third and $8 for a fourth, fifth and sixth.)

LAND IN CANADA

An East Coast Canadian Port—Thirty-six survivors of a merchant ship sunk off the Irish coast—including Canadians, Britons and Chinese—have been landed here. Many of the men had suffered frozen feet while awaiting rescue. They reported more than 80 of their shipmates were lost in the sinking.

INDIANS RELEASED

London.—A despatch from New Delhi said 18 Indian Nationalists held under defence of India regulations have been released. They were freed as the result of a recent federal court ruling that a section of the regulations was invalid. 2514

Helicopter Will Be Useful As Rescue Craft

Ottawa.—The R.C.A.F. has announced that it has ordered six helicopters—the "flying windmills" which can take off and land on your front lawn, and remain still in mid-air.

The Royal Canadian Air Force has purchased them from the United States and may use them in its unending campaign against U-boats off Canada's east coast, because of the special adaptability of these aircraft for this type of duty.

However, the helicopter's immediate job will be to rescue airmen forced down in otherwise inaccessible places, and to serve outposts now dependent on uncertain sea communications.

If it spots a submarine a helicopter can stop right there and drop its depth charges, whereas the modern bombing aircraft usually has to take many minutes and miles to do a run on a submarine which by that time often disappears.

It is said that if the visibility of the water is sufficient the helicopter can hover over a submarine like a shadow until forces are brought up to destroy it. In convoy protection its slow speed permits it to hover over the convoy and be a constant guardian angel against submarines.

The helicopter's speed ranges from 80 miles per hour down to zero miles per hour, and it can stop dead in mid-air, and descend or ascend vertically at will, as well as fly backwards.

For this reason, ferry pilots are enthusiastic about its possibilities, in effecting rescues of airmen forced down in the wilderness.

In these cases, the usual rescue aircraft generally can never land within miles of the lost airmen, and a rescue party on foot takes days to get to them.

With the helicopter, that problem is solved. It can land anywhere, when its huge horizontal revolving blades, it lands like an elevator—straight down. If there is no room for the helicopter to land—which is very unusual—then the machine will hover motionless in the air while a rope ladder is lowered and the rescue is completed.

It is claimed that the helicopter can fly through high winds and storms which keep birds on the ground and that it can land readily on water, mud, ice or snow.

The helicopter can be used for sea rescues.

WITH STEAM UP

A Fully-Equipped Cargo Vessel Launched At Canadian Shipyard

A Canadian Shipyard—A record in Canadian ship-building was set when the 10,000-ton cargo vessel Port Carillon was launched fully equipped and with steam up.

As the vessel slid down the ways her whistle was blowing, guns were mounted on her deck and she was ready in every detail for the test run. This was the first time a fully equipped vessel has been launched from a Canadian shipyard and may establish a British empire record, ship-builders said.

RENAULT RAID

Robbed Germany Of Trucks And Other War Materials

London.—Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of economic warfare, told workers in a Scottish factory that U.S. heavy bombers in their raid on the Renault works outside Paris April 4 damaged more than 40 shops and robbed Germany of at least 1,000 trucks and other war materials.

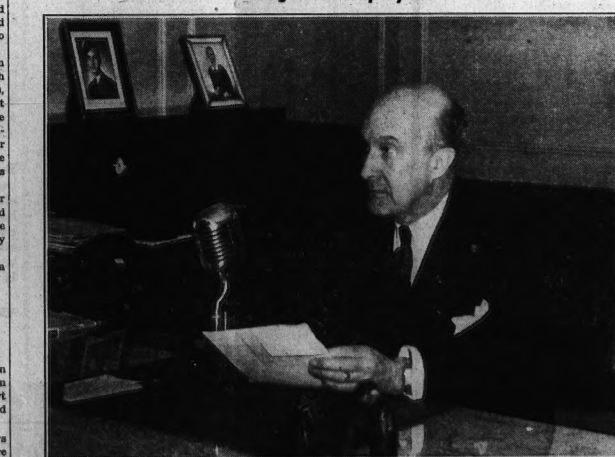

He declared Germany's production of trucks was insufficient for her needs and that her pool of confiscated trucks was almost exhausted in 1942.

Message To Employees

W. M. Neal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, speaking from his office in Windsor station, Montreal, to the company's 73,000 employees Thursday afternoon, April 22, in the loan for which Canadian Pacific officers and employees have an objective of $3,300,000 of the $1,100,000,000 expected from all Canada. The message which came over the most extensive private broadcast hook-up in the history of Canadian communications, was heard by employees from Sydney to Labrador and the Yukon in the drive to surpass company personnel's contribution in the three previous loans when $10,200,000 was pledged. In the frames on his desk are Mr. Neal's daughter and son, Nursing Sister Betty Neal and Sgt. Pilot Jack Neal, both of them overseas on active service.

Searching For Wartime Metals In Far North

Vancouver.—The northland, scene of many an epic gold rush, is undergoing a new-type mining, stamped today as spring sets back the winter snows and opens up the waterways.

It's an organized rush of veteran prospectors, some independent, some financed by big mining companies, all with the blessing of a government hopeful a few of them at least will stumble over rich finds of vital war metals.

To companies ready to grub-stake mineral-wise explorers, the federal government grants income tax concessions. To the prospector on his own it relaxes wartime controls governing rationing, travel and work.

The B.C. chamber of mines at Vancouver, a clearing-house for northwest mining information, is thronged daily with seasoned men preparing to head northward. Plenty of problems attend their departure. Can they use ration coupons in advance to stock up with supplies? Get a pass to travel over the Alaska highway, still closed to civilian traffic? Get a selective service permit to quit their winter job in a shipyard?

If the applicant can establish proof of his experience, and ability as a prospector the answer usually is yes.

On the maps northern B.C., the Yukon territory and Alaska show as a vast unpeopled wilderness. But keenly interested and urged it to continue assembling such on-the-spot information.

Mr. Odell, at present engaged in studies for the North Pacific Planning Project, told the chamber he was keenly interested and urged it to continue assembling such on-the-spot information.

"There's coal here," they say, tapping the map spread out on a table at the chamber of mines, "and here's where you'll likely find antimony!"

molybdenum, mica, mercury and quartz crystals are only some of the strategic metals for which they are searching and which have already been found, often in impressive quantity. Gold is there too, cast into the background by war needs, but, say the prospectors, bound to come back after the war.

They're storing up knowledge now too which will be used in post-war rehabilitation. Information of mineral occurrences is freely given to the chamber of mines, which logs it faithfully on a big map that caught the attention of R. K. Odell of the federal department of mines and resources on a recent visit.

Mr. Odell, at present engaged in studies for the North Pacific Planning Project, told the chamber he was keenly interested and urged it to continue assembling such on-the-spot information.

NEEDS FIREARMS

Department Of National Defence Issues Urgent Appeal

Regina.—An urgent appeal to owners of pistols and revolvers to donate them for use by Canadian army officers has been issued by the department of national defence.

Weapons sought are Colt, Smith and Wesson and Webley pistols and revolvers, hammer type, of .38, .45 and .455 calibre, and Colt automatics of .45 calibre. Hammerless type weapons are not required.

The appeal is being aimed not only at the general public, but to reserve army officers and officers on the retired list. These officers will be issued with pistols when entitled to them, authorities say. The weapons may be offered as a contribution or for appraisal and sale.

INTERRED AIRMEN

All Forced Down In Turkey Are To Be Repatriated

London.—The Daily Mail reported an agreement has been reached whereby interned airmen of all belligerents in Turkey will be repatriated. The airmen, who have been forced down in Turkey since the war began, include Americans, Britons, Russians, Germans and Italians. American airmen were forced down in Turkey last summer after raiding Rumanian oil fields.

Canada Is Third Largest Trading Nation In World

Vancouver.—Canada now is doing the greatest export business in its history and the Dominion's export position is "little short of incredible," Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, said here.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. MacKinnon said 1942 exports left all previous records far behind and this new high level of export business is being carried forward during the present year.

Mr. MacKinnon said Canada now is the third largest trading nation in the world and he emphasized the country's postwar welfare depends to an important extent on ability to find world markets for its products.

Referring to Britain's Beveridge plan and Canada's March plan, the minister asserted "all these programs of social security, when it is possible to fully proceed with them, will never prosper within a country if markets for its goods abroad are shrinking."

Mr. MacKinnon said the great potential markets for Canada's post-war export business are China, the Caribbean countries and Central and South America.

Referring to proper foundations for postwar trade, Mr. MacKinnon reported that in some parts of South America he heard complaints that Canadian firms refused to send samples of their goods and were not particularly prompt in handling correspondence dealing with trade possibilities.

On the other hand, he continued, he found in the same countries that Canadian goods enjoyed a reputation of being high standard and of excellent quality.

He said that a great fleet of steel cargo ships is being built on the west coast for war duty and the extent to which those ships can be used by Canada in postwar trading and how the ships can be distributed and operated is something on which great thought is being given most careful consideration.

Praising wartime services of Canada's merchant marine, he said there are more than 38,000 merchant seamen serving on vessels of Canadian registry and that 642 of these men have been lost at sea through enemy action.

Referring to British Columbia's wartime industries, Mr. MacKinnon remarked "there might have been a wider distribution of Canadian wartime production but that is another story."

DAINGEROUS JOB

Picked Group Of Pilots Called "Seeing Eyes" Of R.A.F.

Valetta, Malta.—A picked group of young Canadian pilots, flying in what the R.A.F. calls photographic reconnaissance units, now is doing a job which is one of the most dangerous and exacting known in the air.

Pilots of these units are the "seeing eyes" of the R.A.F. Their job is to avoid fights and the Germans know that one British P.R.U. safely returned to its own base may mean more grief for the Luftwaffe and its earthen comrades than a whole squadron of fighters or bombers.

* Ptl. Lt. Melcom Brown, 29, a former press photographer of Toronto and Montreal, has rung up a total of 260 hours of operational P.R.U. flying time—100 in England, 75 in the western desert and the rest in Malta.

Brown's R.C.A.F. comrades include Edwin Maloney, of San Jose, Calif., a native of Edmonton. Maloney is a 230-hour man on P.R.U. work.

PLAYING SAFE

Germans Are Selling Valuable Articles Seized From Jewish Owners

Somewhere in Europe.—A Berlin resident said that Germans in the capital have been selling antiques and paintings in large numbers to second-hand dealers in recent weeks for whatever prices offered. He said the reason was the Allied announcement that possessions obtained from foreign or Jewish owners as a result of the war of confusion would be returned after peace is restored.

AIRMAIL SERVICE

Ottawa.—P. T. Colbican, general superintendent of postal service, said there is a "possibility" that it may be possible to restore trans-Atlantic airmail service some time next month. The service would be from New York and would be carried in United States planes, the superintendent said.

A GOOD SPRING TONIC

The Victory Loan communities' contest, launched by the National War Finance Committee, should prove to be a good spring tonic for the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. Most of us carry around a fair share of enthusiasm for Canada's war job; but the trouble with most of us is that we keep it bottled up in placid form—we don't shake it up often enough and allow it to influence our actions as it should.

Let's take a homely illustration to amplify the point. Common experience tells us that the less physical effort we make, as a rule, the less we want to make. The less we use our muscles, the weaker they become. But when we begin to walk into town, to walk to church, or to put new vigor into the physical part of our day's work, we stir up our latent store of physical energy and we feel inclined to do more and more.

The mental approach to our duties as citizens in war time is governed by similar conditions. The more we think and feel about things we should to hurry our victory against oppressors and to bring our boys back home as soon as possible, the greater our urge to increase and strengthen our personal part of the job. When we express our feelings through gatherings in our communities during the Victory Loan campaign, converting our thoughts into action and words, we are bound to feel like buying more Victory Bonds than we did before.

There is no corner on ideas held by any particular group of citizens or by any one community in the country. The Victory Loan Contest should encourage the production of excellent campaign promotion in every section of every province, and it would not be surprising if the grand trophy were won by one of the many small towns of Canada, where imagination and ingenuity grow as abundantly as in any large city.

SOCIAL SECURITY MYTHS

So much is heard of social security that gullible people might gain the impression that heaven on earth is in the offing—that all our wants will be taken care of from the "womb to the tomb," as one writer expressed it. The great plan of the architect of the universe is to be improved on by Social Creditors and C.C.F. advocates, who in their supposed wisdom claim to have the remedies for all the ills of our social and economic systems.

Who wakes the army bugler? Anyway, since July the department of munitions and supply has bought 450 alarm clocks, compared with 600 bugles. Your $100 Victory Bond will buy 10 bugles, 22 alarm clocks and 60 brass rivets for rifle slings.

A local fond father went to the school to see what progress his son was making. In response to his enquiry, the principal said: "Your son probably will go down in history."

"That's good news," glowed the parent.

The principal lifted his eyebrows and continued: "But he might do better in geography and the other subjects."

A TRIP EAST—ODD BITS

(By F. P. Galbraith,
Red Deer Advocate)

Walking up Fifth Avenue on Sunday morning I met a number of the French sailors from the battleship Richelieu and the other French ships which had just reached New York for repairs. Their costume is a bit different to the British or United States sailors. The French lads wear a navy blue blouse similar to that of the other navies, but their hats are fairly large flat navy tans with a big red pom-pom in the centre and a white cord running across the top of the hat and fastened underneath the brim.

From New York to Washington I travelled on the Pennsylvania line. The fast trains used to do this run, 236 miles in 225 minutes, but they take about ten or fifteen minutes longer now. Big electric locomotives pull the trains and their pick-up is fast. The rolling stock and track steel are both heavier than we have here.

An odd note to a Canadian was struck by the holding of dinners all over the United States on Andrew Jackson's birthday by the Democratic Party. The President addressed the dinners by radio, and Mrs. Roosevelt and Vice-President Wallace were the guests at the Washington dinner. The dinners paid from $25 to $100 a plate, and the proceeds, which approached $500,000, are for the Democratic Party funds. It seems queer to an outsider at any time, and particularly when the nation is engaged in a desperate struggle for its life.

They have had to build a large number of new buildings in Washington and take over a lot of others to house the enormous staffs of the various departments. Perhaps the most famous is the Pentagon, which the war department built on the Virginia side of the river. It is five stories high and is five sided. It is some hundreds of yards along each face and at present there are 25,000 people working in it. When all its offices are occupied there will be 40,000.

Travelling in the buses from Washington across the river to the Virginia side, the negroes sit in the back of the bus. There is no partition or division, but that seems to be recognized. On one trip I made there were no negroes in the bus when we started, and a white couple were sitting in the back. We picked up a negro couple at an early stop, and when they got on, the white couple got up and moved to seats near the front. Negro help is used in the restaurants, with white help in Washington and New York, but not on the same kind of job. You do not see white and negro waitresses working together there, although I did in Boston, which has a somewhat different outlook on the color question.

It was storming so hard when I left that it took almost two hours to get the train into the Toronto station so that we could start for sunny Alberta. They told us that they only had one switch open to handle both incoming and outgoing trains, so we waited in the station until about 1 a.m. before we got on our train. The trip home was pleasant. The weather improved as we got further west. I spent a day in Winnipeg, one in Regina and one in Calgary on the way back, and was very happy to reach Red Deer.

It took me four weeks to make the journey, and after that length of time in hotels and sleeping cars it was a real treat to be home. The Eastern Canadian winter was good medicine, too, because it made me realize how fortunate we are out here in spite of our own severe weather. We do not have anything like the difficulties they have down there.

The service on the railways and in the hotels, I thought, was remarkably good. I like the berths on the U.S. trains better than those in Canada, perhaps because the extra length I carry does not lend itself to fitting into a standard berth. They have sponge rubber mattresses which are very comfortable. Their dining car service is not nearly so good as that on this side of the line. The cars are not so comfortable and the food, while good, is more expensive and not so carefully served. I missed one meal on the dinner between Toronto and Winnipeg, because I couldn't get in, but that was not serious, as I was getting off at Winnipeg anyway. The way the dining car staffs coped with the rush of business they had was a tribute to their resourcefulness and good temper. When trains were late, as they were quite often, it meant serving an extra meal from limited supplies, and the dining car people had my sympathy.

I have done a fair amount of travelling, but I do not remember any other trip on which I was treated with so much kindness and consideration by everyone I met. The railway people, the customs men, the immigration people, the hotel staffs, the men and women in the stores and offices I spoke to and, in fact, everyone looked after me well. This would have been remarkable under normal conditions, but when you realize that all of them were working under wartime difficulties and weather, it is somewhat surprising. One man in an exclusive Fifth Avenue shop didn't care for the look of my overcoat, but I could hardly blame him for that, because I don't care much for it myself. In spite of that, he did well by me.

These notes have grown a good deal since they were begun, but if they have given some pleasure to the readers of the Advocate they will have served their purpose. The End.

Distracted Mother, to policeman: "Oh, officer, I've lost my little girl!"
Policeman: "What is she like?"

World's Champion Wheat Grower Recommends VICTORY BONDS

Born in England, the "Wheat Wizard of Saskatchewan" spent his early years as a clerk in the Old Country. In 1888 he emigrated to Canada, and homesteaded north of Saskatoon where he learned the elements of farming. In 1900 he was attracted to the Rosthern district where he purchased, for less than one thousand dollars, the 160 acre farm on which the celebrated experiments which made his name a household word in Western Canada were carried out.

One of his initial achievements was producing 40 bushels of wheat to the acre on three inches of rainfall.

In 1911 he scored one of his greatest successes when, with a bushel of Marquis wheat, he won the "world's championship" at the New York land show, and was awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. In 1914 and 1915 he won similar honors, and carried for himself the appellation—"The World's Champion Wheat Grower".

For his services to Canadian agriculture, Seager Wheeler was honored in 1915 by a doctor of laws degree conferred by Queen's University.

Dr. Wheeler says:

"If Canadians were asked to give money to help to win the war we would not be asked to make a big sacrifice. Some are giving their lives. We are asked to lend money. I am sure that farmers throughout Canada will be glad to lend money to their country, for like all other Canadians, they know we must do all we can to help.

"There is a practical reason for buying Victory Bonds, too. The money we lend to Canada now, to help to win the war, will be ours to use as we please after the war has been won. Ready cash will be handy to have when we will want to replace farm equipment that is wearing out now. A farmer can always find a use for savings, and there is no better way to save than by investing all we can in Victory Bonds."

"Back the Attack!"

WHAT A VICTORY BOND IS:

A Victory Bond is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the bond at the time indicated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity. A Victory Bond is the best investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay principal and interest. A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

PEACEFUL OCCUPATION

Early one morning, in the gray light of a November dawn, the Germans entered a town in Europe. Attacking the barracks guardhouse first, they threw hand grenades into the rooms of sleeping men, killing four and wounding many others. The soldiers, suddenly awakened, and still in night attire, were assembled in the yard of the barracks, and left there for nearly three hours. In the winter cold, and under threat of machine gun fire if they moved.

This was not the invasion; the storming of another country. It was not Poland, Norway, Czechoslovakia; it was merely one of the many incidents of the story of "peaceful occupation" of the formerly unoccupied zone of France, which took place on November 11, 1942.

Under the forced labor policy of the Vichy government in France, Frenchmen every day are being sent to work in the factories of Germany. In spite of their courageous efforts to resist this plan, men, and even French women, are now being rounded up in public places, in restaurants, theatres and cafes, and with barely enough time to say good-bye to their families, are being shipped in box cars like cattle to work under appalling conditions for the Nazis.

The death occurred in a Calgary hospital on Monday of one of the best known citizens of the province in the person of Peter David Stuart Crerar, aged 67. Born in Pictou, Nova Scotia, Mr. Crerar came west to Macleod in the early days as an original member of the North West Mounted Police. He served with the force till the outbreak of the South African war, in which he served. He is survived by his wife, Margaree, of Calgary; one daughter, Mrs. Melvin Barry, of Sylvan Lake, three grandchildren and two sisters.

JUDY RICHARDS

For years Mart Kenny and his Western Gentlemen and Judy Richards (above) have been making trans-Canada tours and receiving the nation's handsomest bouquets, but today their journeys are a special matter for Canada's young men of the armed forces, since Mart and the lads are visiting training centres and playing their sweetest arrangements for the troops. Mart and the boys and Judy are expected in the west shortly.

In the above picture, he is seen at work on some of his clever musical arrangements. Two of Farnon's symphonies have been performed by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. The Army Show is expected in the West shortly.

SACRIFICE

The name Dieppe resounds today
A stirring battle call
Of men who counted not the cost
Of men who gave their all.

The outmatched crew of the Raccoon
Fought till their ship went down.
So did our sons and brothers on
The corvette Charlottetown.

The grim destroyer Ottawa
Gave all she had to give.
Her gallant skipper, half her crew,
They died that we might live.

Each day adds to the mounting roll
Of flying heroes who
Have met their rendezvous with death
That freedom shall win through.

Oh, how can we in safety here
Count pennies of upbraid?
What is our sacrifice compared
With that these men have made!

—G. R. Allerton, Montreal.

WHAT, NO MOLASSES?

And guess whom the molasses shortage has hit, in the great molasses-exting land of the Maritimes, besides the lumbermen who can't have it with their beans, and the housewives who can't make molasses cake, and the kids who can't use it as a substitute for equally-scarce butter, and the grandmothers who can't mix it with melted butter as a cough remedy? The bootleggers. Strict liquor rationing has meant that they can't buy stock from the government stores, and now the molasses shortage prevents the making of moonshine. Many a thirsty Nova Scotian has turned illegally to shaving lotion, canned heat, nail polish remover, patent medicines.

British Women Assist in Collection Of Herbs For Medicinal Purposes

In Britain many women's organizations, particularly Women's Institutes, aside from their regular wartime jobs, are assisting in the collection of herbs which may be used for medicinal purposes. These herbs are collected to take the place of those formerly imported from territories now under enemy control.

As well as herb collection, during the year 1941-1942, two hundred tons of rose hips were collected and made into vitamin-giving syrup for the babies and children. In round figures this meant picking about 134,000,000 individual rose hips. These produced nearly 600,000 bottles of the syrup.

World Still Rolling

In Spite Of Prophecy Made Over Four Hundred Years Ago

In 1526 a French Jew by the name of Michel de Notre Dame or, as now commonly called, Nostradamus, penned one of his celebrated prophecies. He forecast that the world would come to an end when Good Friday fell on April 23, Easter on April 29 and the Feast of Corpus Christi on June 24. This year fulfilled these conditions! But another fact also stands clear. The same sequence occurred in the Year of Relative Grace 1896—and the world has kept on rolling without substantial let or hindrance during the intervening 57 years.

In The Aleutians

Wild Bird Life Held To Be Flying In Formation To Imitate Planes

Even the wild-life in the Aleutians had been militarized, according to Capt. Aaron Blewitt, of Cul De Sac, Idaho, company commander of a unit camped in a wild valley on the slopes of an Aleutian volcano.

"Since our arrival here," Captain Blewitt said, "the blue foxes have learned to stand in the chow line and the ravens are beginning to fly in military formations."

The men in Captain Blewitt's company support his assertions that the fat, playful, highly intelligent ravens imitate the manoeuvres of fighter planes based in the Aleutians. They maintain that the birds not only fly in echelons and peel off in attack dives, but they also occasionally poke fun at the air corps by making extremely bumpy and unbirdlike landings.

"But the best stunt they have pulled off here," Captain Blewitt said, "was when they gave our terrier mascot a shellacking. They circled over him in an echelon of echelons and came down one at a time, clawing the pup and whacking him so hard with their beaks that half the company had to knock off work to rescue him."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 9

PETER AND JOHN LEADERS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

Golden text: Now when they beheld the multitude of the people, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they said unto them, that they had been with Jesus. Acts 4:13.

Lesson: Acts 2:37-41; 5:1-8; 4:13, 18-21.

Devotional reading: Psalm 33:12-22. Explanations and Comments: The Day of Pentecost, and the Amazement of Jews from Many Countries, Acts 2:1-13.

Peter's Exhortation and its Result: Acts 2:37-41. Peter's words about the Christ were convincing to his hearers, and his home thrust at their consciences—"Ye did crucify and slew him,"—pricked their hearts, convicted them of their sin, and they cried, "Brethren, what shall we do?" How glad were we from that point!

They must not only repent of their sin, but they must change their opinion of Jesus Christ. Peter told them: the one whom they had regarded as a false Christ they must accept as the true Christ; and they must acknowledge this by being baptized; and then they would receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

"How to you is the promise, and to your children," Peter further told them, "and to all that are afar off." A footnote in the new Catholic Bible states that "to them that are afar off" meant the Gentiles, but Peter at this time had had but vision of clean and unclean and it seems more natural to refer the phrase to the Jews that were scattered at a distance. His hearers heeded his words, and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls.

Peter Heals a Lame Man at the Door of the Temple, Acts 3:1-8. Nine in the morning and three in the afternoon were the hours for sacrifice and prayer in the temple; it was the ninth hour, three o'clock in the afternoon, when Peter and John went one day to the temple to pray. At the door of the temple called Beautiful they saw a man sitting and begging alms of all worshippers. The man had been lame from birth, and as he was daily carried to that spot to beg, he must have been well known to all in Jerusalem. "He was part of the city landscape, the people knew him as they knew the carved columns of the temple doorway."

The man was not expecting alms from every worshipper, and probably glanced indifferently at Peter and John. To rouse his attention upon them and arouse his expectations, Peter said to him, "Look on us." Then the beggar gave heed to them, doubtless expecting to receive a few coins. But Peter said to him, "Silver and gold have I none; but what I have, that give I thee. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk."

Immediately the man's feet and ankle-bones received strength; he leaped up and began to walk, and entered the temple with the apostles, all the time leaping and praising God.

Wartime Meals

How To Overcome Shortages And Rationing Of Food

Adequate wartime meals can be prepared in spite of shortages and rationing of food.

The dietetic study points out that with a plentiful supply of cereal foods and a fair supply of milk, potatoes and vegetables, the average family can maintain a vigorous diet, even if further cuts in rationed foods become necessary.

Here are some ways nutrition experts suggest to vary wartime menus:

Use muffins, Johnny-cake and other quick breads in place of standard dark and enriched white breads.

For breakfast, alternate cooked cereals with ready-cooked package cereals.

Serve a tray of attractive sandwiches for lunch or dinner.

"Stretch" meat and fish croquettes, meat loaves, hash and stews with bread crumbs, oatmeal, soy flour.

Dress up toast with ginger, nutmeg, cinnamon or honey and syrup. Fill out your meals with bread puddings, rice puddings and cereal "brown betty."

Work milk and cottage cheese into as many of your dishes as you can.

The home of Mrs. J. M. Windsor at Cranbrook was the scene of a lovely tea on Wednesday of last week, when she entertained in honor of Mrs. Lloyd Shelton, of Calgary. Mrs. Shelton succeeds Mr. Windsor as manager of the Cranbrook branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, and with Mrs. Shelton have taken up residence in that city.

There is a wonderful new invention just coming into use. It is known as the mechanical cow, which is roughly a cream separator operating in reverse. You feed her milk powder, distilled water and sweet butter and she will reward you with fresh milk. Feed her a little more butter and she'll give you cream as rich as you want it. This is the way the cows works: The milk powder is dissolved in water in the mixing tank under heat of 120 degrees for several minutes. Sweet butter is then added and the heat is raised to pasteurizing temperature. The milk is then passed through the centrifuge, or emulsifier, and is cooled in eight seconds to forty degrees. In this process it is clarified of all impurities.

The implications of this, economically, are obvious. If milk from dairy cows can be broken down into dehydrated skimmed milk, and with butter or butter oil, shipped to any part of the world and reconstituted by the mechanical cow so that it tastes like pasture-fresh milk, dairymen will be able to sell skimmed milk, which formerly they used as feed or threw away.—P. J.S. in Cranbrook Courier.

Those who fret about rationing in this country should be glad they don't live in Sweden, where each person carries at least ninety rationing books. Point values change almost daily and householders must keep up with the changes by means of government bulletins.

Allan P. Hughes, resident of Regina for the past twenty-one years, died in that city on Thursday last. A native of Digby, N.S., he came to western Canada in 1910, and was Union Bank manager at several points in British Columbia and Alberta, including Bellevue. For the past seventeen years he has been with the Hughes Insurance Agencies. He served overseas in the last war as lieutenant with the 137th Battalion from Calgary. He is survived by his wife, son Gerald, overseas, and a daughter at home. He was in his 56th year.

Over thirty years ago, Bob Edwards' Eye Opener predicted that if utmost vigilance was not exercised by game guardians and police, there would soon be no game in Banff national park. A few ragged remnants of wild game were roaming the mountains. Stoney Indians were making a pretty good cleanup of everything in sight, and there was no law to cover their case. Astounding as it may be, it was a fact that anyone during open season could kill 500 head of mountain goat and sheep, ewes and lambs; but he was prohibited from selling any of it, not even a slice.
